

Leadership Conference for African-American Males

“Educating Our Black Youth: A Community Responsibility”

Sponsored by NCNABSE Affiliates:
NCABSE, GCABSE and WCABSE

February 12-13, 2015

University of North Carolina at Charlotte, Cone University Center

Student rate – $10

Adult one-day rate – $50

Adult two-day rate – $100

Register by February 5 to get the best rate!

In partnership with The University of North Carolina at Charlotte, Africana Studies Department, Urban Education Collaborative, Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools and Communities In Schools, Charlotte-Mecklenburg

A conference you do not want to miss! Teachers, administrators, parents, community leaders, and all middle school males of color are invited to attend.

Sessions for middle school black males include interactive presentations on critical leadership, etiquette, self-esteem building, positive communication among peers, and a motivational session designed to improve reading and writing skills through present-day music and poetry.

Sessions for educators will focus on cultural issues related to public education, as well as strategies, interventions, programs, and resources to improve the quality of education for all students.

Powerful, national speakers and local leaders from the community will discuss cultural issues and best practices to improve the quality of education for all children, especially children of African descent.

Eric Cork

Dr. George Fraser

Glenn Singleton

Dr. Lucian Yates

For registration information, please call 704.817.9341 or email ncnabseaffiliates@gmail.com.
To register online, visit www.ncnabseaffiliatesconference.eventbrite.com.